A NORWICH INQUIRY

Answered By the Statement Of a Norwich Resident.

When first the long series of reports of Norwich people who have been relieved by Doan's Kidney Pills were published in the local press, great enthusiasm and interest were aroused. But Norwich is now inquiring "How are these people keeping today? How has the benefit they received withstood the test of time?" For that, after all, is the essential test of a cure. On this point doubt can no longer exist, for after many years those who have been cured, emphatically declare their cures to be lasting. D. J. Brown, 6 Summer St., Norwich, says: "The results that followed the use of Doan's Kidney Pills in my case were satisfactory. I got this remedy at N. D. Sevin & Son's Drug Store and it proved effective in strengthening my kidneys and relieving other symptoms of kidney trouble."

A LASTING EFFECT.

At a later interview, Mr. Brown said: "I still hold a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and confirm the public statement I gave in their praise some years ago. Kidney trouble and I have been strangers for a long time."

GOV. BALDWIN ACCEPTS FEDERAL REGULATIONS

Quarantine for Foot and Mouth Disease is Now in Effect.

Governor Simeon E. Baldwin has sent his official acceptance of the terms of the federal quarantine and the indemnity paid for destroying cattle affected with the foot and mouth disease. Commissioner Phelps met the governor Wednesday morning in the hall of the capitol, and immediately invited him into the commissioner's office to wait for action by the legislature which had just been received.

Hon. J. O. Phelps, Commissioner of Domestic Animals, Simsbury, Conn.

Sir: Concerning the outbreak of foot and mouth disease, you are advised that the following states have been quarantined to date: Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

The department is calling in all of its men possible from other lines of work and putting them at foot and mouth disease eradication just as rapidly as it can do so. Until we can get men in the field in Connecticut, please make your best effort to limit its spread, as the present outbreak is the worst this country has ever experienced and is going to require the most earnest and intelligent work by the state as well as by the federal bureau of animal industry.

A rigid state quarantine should be promptly inaugurated on all premises where the disease is found, as well as on the highways leading by and into infected farms, to prevent the movement, trailing or driving of cattle, sheep, other ruminants and swine over such highways.

There appears to be a tendency in most infected localities on the part of veterinarians as well as others, through acquaintance, friendship or position, to claim the privilege of seeing cases of the disease. It is therefore important that veterinarians and owners be instructed in the matter of such dangers.

Veterinarians engaged in making inspections should be equipped with rubber coats, hair gloves, boots and bichloride of mercury tablets and directed in their conscientious use.

The plan under which the department is operating in the various states is as follows: The department will pay 50 per cent. of the appraised value of slaughtered livestock destroyed by, and parts of stables; 50 per cent. of disinfecting expenses, digging and burial expenses, and will pay all salaries of bureau employees, their living hire as may be necessary, traveling and subsistence expenses and rental of offices.

Please present this matter to the governor and his cabinet, and, if possible, as applying to the state of Connecticut.

Respectfully,
J. O. Phelps,
Acting Chief of Bureau.

Commissioner Phelps then drew Governor Baldwin's attention to Section 478, Chapter 237, of the General Statutes, which provided:

"United States Authorities May Quarantine—The governor may accept on behalf of the state the rules and regulations prepared by the commissioner of agriculture under and in pursuance of section three of an act of congress approved May 25, 1884, entitled 'An act for the establishment of a bureau of animal industry to prevent the exportation of diseased cattle, and to provide means for the suppression and extinction of pleuro-pneumonia and other contagious diseases among domestic animals,' and co-operate with Hartford, West Hartford, Wethersfield, Windsor, Manchester, New Britain, Newington and South Windsor.

The step was taken on advice of the federal department of animal industry, and was taken because it has been found that infected animals have been recently transported between points in the vicinity, undoubtedly spreading the disease. For the protection of all animals, the order has been made as strict as possible. It went into effect Thursday morning and lasts until further notice.

A plan of instruction for the various veterinarians has been made up, and many of these who will be added to the temporary staff were at the capitol during the day for instruction. Among them were Dr. George E. Corwin of Canaan, Dr. M. Ray Powers of Norwich and Dr. C. L. Adams of Danielson. Dr. Adams was sent to Wethersfield to make further investigation into the complaint sent by the state veterinarian of Rhode Island that cattle imported from H. B. Chapman's farm in Plainfield were infected. So far nothing has been found to bear out the assertion of the neighboring state, but the commissioner intends to make as complete as possible an inspection.

Twelve-Hour School Days.

The standard attendance enforced on elementary school children in London is a long way off that maintained by some old-time pedagogues. Up to the middle of the eighteenth century the usual school hours in Scotland were from 6 a. m. till 6 p. m., with two breaks of an hour each. Some schools opened an hour earlier, and worked so long as daylight lasted. No alteration was made in the hour on Saturday, and even on Sunday a certain amount of school work was done. The holidays were restricted to a day at Candlemas and at Whitmas, and a fortnight in the summer or autumn. At Perth the summer holiday was fixed for June "because it is hurtful for scholars at the end of August, which is the period of green fruit and is destructive to the health."—London Chronicle.
